Ten Commandments Jigsaw

Your teacher will assign each student two of the Ten Commandments. Read and take notes about the meaning of the commandments you are given. Then, when the teacher prompts you to do so, move into a different group of students who took notes on the other commandments. Each student should present his or her two commandments, and the other students should take notes on his or her presentation. This activity is called “jigsaw” because each person represents one piece of the “puzzle.”
